SECTOR ALLOCATIONS³

FUND UPDATE

The Advance Australian Shares Multi-Blend Fund returned 2.0% on a net basis in February, slightly underperforming the S&P/ASX 300 Accumulation Index which returned 2.09%. The Australian market proved resilient against a global sell-off triggered by the invasion of Ukraine by Russia. The index's greater exposure to cyclical sectors, such as Materials and Banks, supported this outperformance.

Underlying manager performance was mostly positive. Realindex was the largest contributor to relative performance. The quantitative manager builds the portfolio based on accounting measures representative of fundamental value, independent of the market benchmark. The manager generated alpha across all sectors over the period. The underweight to, and strong stock selection in, IT was the largest contributor. Platypus was the largest relative detractor. The manager invests in companies with underappreciated growth prospects. The underperformance of growth stocks has been a headwind for Platypus. Stock selection has also been weak and was most pronounced in the Materials sector where the underweight to Gold detracted.

From a sector perspective, the underweight to, and positive stock selection in, Consumer Discretionary was the largest contributor to relative performance. Conversely, the underweight and negative stock selection in Materials was the largest detractor. At a stock level, the underweight to Wesfarmers was the top contributor, whilst the overweight to Xero was the largest detractor.

- 1 The Management Costs included in this fact sheet are inclusive of the Management Fee and any Performance Fees and includes the effect of GST (net of RITC). They do not include other indirect costs. Refer to the Product Disclosure Statement and online disclosures for further information.
