The Fund fell 1.6% in September, compared to the ASX 200 which declined 2.8%.

It was another volatile month with the sell off in bonds being the dominant feature. Australian 10-year bond yields increased from 4% to 4.5% and US bond yields increased from 4.1% to 4.5% - levels not seen in many years.

Energy commodities continued their march higher in September, with Brent Oil prices increasing 9.8% to $95.

TECK Resources rallied 4.5% in September driven by rising expectations of global economic activity plus an increasing chance of corporate activity. Santos (+3.0%) and Suncorp (+2.5%) performed well driven by better oil prices and higher short-term rates respectively.

Our detractors were mainly in our defensive companies, CSL (-7.6%), TLS (-4.0%) and HCA Healthcare (-11.1%) as higher rates weighed heavily on these longer duration investments. Fundamentally they remain sound and in fact most of these businesses are well positioned to navigate a trickier economic environment.

We exited Origin Energy on the heightened risk of deal completion and a lower annualised return after a very strong few months. We also increased our exposure to Viva Energy, as insider Vittol sold 16% of the company or approximately 33% of its stake. This provided a great liquidity opportunity at attractive levels.

Equity markets are precariously placed with a higher USD, rising oil prices and rising rates increasing equity and economic volatility. Generally when these factors combine, stresses in the financial system are elevated with the increased probability of something going wrong. On the flip side, the US economy remains extremely resilient to the Fed's tightening (thus far) and hence we remain in a divisive market. We will continue to deploy our cash into attractive opportunities as they present themselves, but remain wary given the aforementioned risks.
