Walter Scott Global Equity Fund

Macquarie Professional Series

Monthly report – 31 May 2021

Performance summary

- The Fund returned 1.39% in May 2021, compared with a return for the Benchmark of 1.19%, with investor enthusiasm around a strong global macroeconomic environment driving equity markets higher.
- Against a backdrop of vaccine rollouts and ongoing fiscal and monetary stimuli, cyclical GICS sectors, such as Energy and Financials, saw the largest gains. For the Fund, the largest relative contributors to performance were holdings in Consumer Discretionary, including Inditex and LVMH, and in Consumer Staples, such as L'Oréal. These were partially offset by the Fund's long-term underweight to the Financials sector.
- What do a meat processing company, an oil pipeline and the Irish Department of Health have in common? 'Hacking' of course, and this is a problem that is intensifying. Leading internet security company Fortinet is firing on all cyber-cylinders, judging by its recent set of first-quarter 2021 results, which saw the highest quarterly revenue and billings growth in the last five years. Its FortiGate network security appliances recorded a 20% year-on-year increase in billings, as the company gained market share thanks to architectural advantages which allow the running of many simultaneous security applications without a degradation of performance. However, the company also continues to see significant momentum in its broader platform of security solutions and cloud offerings, as demonstrated by the 50% increase in billings in this area. The company's strong rates of growth are not a function of pandemic-related pent-up demand, but more reflect the increasing priority companies are giving towards cyber security. Fortinet is a highly cash-generative business with industry leading margins, negative net working capital and a strong balance sheet with an engineering-focused culture of continuous innovation, aimed at positioning the business for long-term growth.
- There were no initial purchases or final sales within the portfolio during the month.
- Given the long-term nature of Walter Scott's holding periods, there will inevitably be times when business models are tested by the challenges and opportunities that changes in economic cycles engender. The companies the Fund holds are typically veterans of navigating such changes, with attributes of market leadership, good management and sound finances coming to the fore whatever the macroeconomic backdrop. They are at the forefront of, or indeed are driving trends that will propel strong earnings growth over the years to come.
