MONTHLY SUMMARY

The Munro Global Growth Fund returned 1.6% in June. Long equities contributed positively to performance; whilst currencies and portfolio hedging detracted from performance. Global markets rallied strongly in June. One of the key potential risks to the market was taken off the table at the beginning of the month with US President, Joe Biden, signing legislation that lifts the nation's debt ceiling. The market's breadth widened during the month as non-technology sectors also performed well, with some of the more financially leveraged sectors like, industrials, recovered some recent underperformance. Top contributors for the month included Nvidia, continuing to rally after exceptional earnings results in May and Amazon, as the market reappraised their outlook as a beneficiary in artificial intelligence given their strong incumbency in cloud computing infrastructure. Detractors for the month included Alphabet and Synopsys which gave back some of their recent strong gains. From a portfolio perspective, we remain encouraged by earnings outlooks for our portfolio holdings, which point to an acceleration in earnings growth from some of our key Areas of Interest.
