

UBS Tactical Beta Fund – Conservative

July 2021

Fund description

The Fund is a diversified Australian and global portfolio with the long term neutral (or average) exposure to income and growth assets expected to be 70% / 30% respectively of the total portfolio.

Investment strategy

Our portfolio management team will build a diversified portfolio of income and growth assets, largely by using exchange traded funds (ETFs), both onshore and offshore, index funds, cash funds and derivatives. They will tactically allocate between asset classes and currencies based on their relative value, whilst managing the overall risk and return of the portfolio. Currency exposure is actively managed through an overlay strategy to take advantage of mis-valuations that arise.

Investment return objective

The Fund aims to outperform (after management costs) the Benchmark over rolling five year periods. The Benchmark is based on the return on the market indices based on the Neutral Allocation of assets (refer to the individual asset class benchmark weights opposite in the 'Fund tactical and strategic allocations' graph).

Market review

Global equities continued its rally in July, supported by strong recovery in corporate earnings especially in the US and monetary policy support which helped investors look through the ongoing spread of the more infectious Delta COVID-19 variant. Risk arising from China was in this spotlight this month as stricter curbs on after school tutoring industry exposed China and the broader emerging markets with idiosyncratic risks in what was a volatile month. Government bond yields declined over the month on the back of strong demand for safer assets with global growth momentum slowing. In credit, while growth concerns led to a modest widening of spreads across the main credit segments, higher beta segments such as high yield finished in the positive territory as well as EM Sovereign bonds which was slightly up over the month. However, spreads on Asia high yield expanded significantly due to ongoing negative news flow around the Chinese property sector.

Locally, Australian equities delivered a positive return despite lagging behind US and European equities. Australian 10 year yield declined which was in line with the 10 year US treasury yield. AUD weakened against the USD as Australian lockdown restrictions were extended.

Performance review

After fees and expenses, the portfolio return of 0.75% (gross of fees return of 0.77%) in July underperformed the benchmark return of 1.33% by 58bps. At the end of July, the Fund's equity weight was in line with the benchmark relative to the benchmark excluding additional exposure to Global REITs. We maintained our exposure to pro-cyclical relative value trades such as long European banks versus European equities and long global financial equities versus global equities. In terms of regional equity views, we continue to hold a preference for UK, Germany, Japan and Europe over the US and Australian equities. We remained overweight to Global REITs at the end of the month.

Duration was kept short relative to the benchmark over the month. We remained broadly neutral in Australian and underweight to Europe, US, UK and Japan durations.

Foreign currency exposure was at 12.2% with key underweights in CHF, NZD, PHP, TWD, KRW, AUD, CAD and overweights in USD, BRL, EUR, JPY and PLN.

Asset allocation

Asset Allocation decisions detracted this month. Our relative value equity trades were responsible for majority of the underperformance as our preference for long European Banks versus EMU equity, global financial equities detracted from performance. We closed our US equal weight position which had also detracted from performance month to date prior to closure. From a regional equity perspective overweight to Europe including the UK and Japan as well as underweight to Australia and the US detracted from performance. We reduced our overweight to Europe versus the US over the month. Duration positioning detracted from performance this month as treasury yields decreased over the month. We closed our overweight to hard currency EM debt which did not make a meaningful contribution. Our overweight to REITs contributed positively to performance in July.

Active currency trades were mixed this month. Positive contributions came from our underweight to AUD, CAD, PHP, KRW and TWD and overweight to USD, EUR, and JPY. Negative contributions came from underweight to CHF and overweight to PLN. Underweight to NZD did not have a meaningful impact on performance this month.

Outlook

The economic recovery is likely to continue on the back of additional global fiscal stimulus, still accommodative financial conditions, and progress on the effective administration of COVID-19 vaccines. However, in the near term we expect a choppy environment for equities, as it is common during the second year of a new bull market. Long-term bond yields have retraced aggressively ahead of the turn in global growth momentum and signs of incrementally hawkish US Federal Reserve. However, inflation risks remain tilted to the upside and global economic activity is poised to remain robust into 2022. We expect increases in real rates and market-based measures of inflation compensation to contribute to a renewed rise in yields. Sovereign bonds continues to play an important diversifying role in portfolio construction, and remains particularly effective in hedging downside in procyclical relative value equity positions.
