Market and portfolio review

The S&P/ASX 200 AREIT Accumulation Index rose 5.29%, reversing a material portion of the drop experienced in March, when the markets were in a risk-off mode following some global banking failures. The residential-exposed names more generally delivered positive returns once more, as the market becomes more comfortable in the assumption we are near the high point of the interest rate rising cycle. As such, an improvement in underlying demand is also being generally forecast.

The strong performance of the AREITs saw it outperform both the Global REITs (up 2.0%) and the general market (via the S&P/ASX 300 Accumulation Index) which was up 1.9%.

The ten-year bond yield was little changed by the end of April, up 4 bps, to 3.34%, with a similar move in the ten-year real bond yields, seeing it at just under 1%, which is in line with our assumed through-the-cycle real interest rate. This resulted in the implied inflation expectations for the next 10 years remaining relatively flat at 2.36%, which is on the low-side to what we forecast inflation to be longer-term.

Future investment strategy

The Fund continues to target Australian Real Estate Investment Trusts (AREITs) that provide solid fundamentals over the medium-to-long-term that are trading attractively relative to other AREITs. Overall we endeavour to invest in entities that offer a combination of:

- A Net Present Value ("NPV") Discount;
- An Internal Rate of Return ("IRR") Premium;
- Ideally a (Real, not manufactured) Free Cashflow Yield Premium; and
- A Lower Price to Net Asset Value ("NAV").
